How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulfate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

"JOSEPH AND HIS BRETHREN"

At The Lexington Opera House.

By far the biggest thing which comes to Lexington will be the splendid pageant drama, "Joseph and His Brethren" at the Lexington Opera House for three nights, April 13, 14 and 15, with matinees Wednesday 15th.

This marvelous production is the third and greatest of the colossal Liebler Company's spectacles from the Century Theatre, New York, the companion play to "The Garden of Allah" and "The Daughter of Heaven."

"Joseph and His Brethren" is universally conceded to be the most magnificent theatrical show given in America. In London it is now being done by an English company headed by Sir Beerbohm Tree and Miss Maxine Elliott, but next week Lexington gets the original New York production with its world of scenery and effects and the same superb cast of principals which played the piece there all last winter. There are four acts, eleven massive scenes, and a small army of two-hundred and fifty people concerned in the play. Brandon Tynan plays Jacob; that splendid stage veteran, James O'Neill, Joseph; and the most beautiful woman on the American stage, Pauline Frederick, the role of Potiphar's wife. Other notable roles in the cast are W. T. Carleton, Henry Harmon, Charles D. Herman, Rosina Henley, dramatist E. E. Rose's clever daughter, Ruth Rose, and five score more of the favorites who delighted New York audiences for six months.

The story is told in the sonorous classical English of the Bible itself. The author is Louis N. Parker, the most famous playwright of the present day, who has given the contemporary stage John Drew's "Rosemary," George Arliss' "Disraeli," "Pomander Walk," "Drake," etc. The scenery is beyond all description. So massive, beautiful and intricate is it that a force of one hundred men are necessary for its handling. There are herds of camels, oxen, asses, goats, horses and sheep. There is a ballet corps of twenty-four dancers in the wonderful palace scene in Pharaoh's court. In a word, "Joseph and His Brethren" is the last word in stagecraft and spectacular drama. During its engagement here the evening performance will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, and the matinees at 2 p. m. Seats may be ordered by mail if remittance is enclosed, together with a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Hon. R. Tate Irvine For Congress.

Hon. R. Tate Irvine, a student some years ago at Central University, this city, now a leading attorney of Big Big Stone Gap, Va., has been nominated for Congress to succeed the present incumbent, Hon. C. Mr. Irvine is a fine lawyer and a man of commanding personality, as well as high-toned gentleman.

Lancaster Merchant Assigns.

H. T. Logan of Lancaster, filed a deed of assignment last week for the benefit of his creditors, naming the Garrard Bank & Trust Company as assignee. He conducted a men's furnishings and shoe store. Bad collections are given as the cause of the assignment. Mr. Logan served for two years as Mayor of Lancaster, retiring on January 1.

SEEN IN THE SOUTH.

New Day Dawning Below Mason and Dixon Line.

(New York World)

If anybody ever wants to fight a third battle of Bull Run, the trip from Washington to Manassas Junction can be made by trolley. Bull Run was bubbling even with its banks from the spring floods. A small stream with great fame.

Alexandria, where George Washington went to church, is getting out of its decay and becoming a smart suburb of Washington. New houses in new districts hide the ancient town.

The peaks behind Thomas F. Ryan's Virginia country-seat were white with snow yesterday morning. The drifts were still deep in the woods. The South has had a long winter.

The Confederate monument at Manassas is the ugliest ever. It seems rough to live and die for such a memorial.

Georgia is reveling in the illicit joys of a state-wide Prohibition law. The clubs thrive for the privileged; and "near-beer" is retailed to soothe the populace. Jacksonville, handily situated near the Georgia border of Florida, holds out a comforting, if uncertain, hand. It has taken over the "last Georgia Sunshine" Whisky that will ever be offered for sale, and tenders the limited remainder to Atlanta, 12 full quarts for $10.50.

The mule continues to be the South's most industrious denizen. Atlanta is a mule center. The mule buyers support a big hotel at the stock yards.

Gaffney is the name of an important station on the Southern Road in South Carolina. Suggested thoughts of home and Jim.

Atlanta is in a county with 300 miles of good roads that are really good. Six hundred State convicts built.

The Southern cities are all stretching their joints. Birmingham thinks it is to become a 500,000 town, and Jacksonville is planning for the same dimensions. Alexandria advertises six railroads and five steamship lines.

Conference Call To Kentucky Ministers.

A call to ministers of Kentucky to attend a conference on rural church problems in connection with the Southern Educational Conferences, to be held in Louisville next month, was issued Tuesday by the Kentucky Committee appointed by A. G. Horland, general secretary of the movement. Signed by the twenty-two members who are prominent throughout the State, it follows:

"To the Ministers of Kentucky in connection with the great rural life conference to be held in Louisville, April 7 to 10, there will be a conference on the rural church problems. This conference will be held in the Methodist Temple, Sixth street and Broadway, Louisville, and will be in the nature of an informal discussion of the important problems confronting the country churches. Men who have made a special study of certain aspects of the country church will be present to give the benefit of their counsel and information. President D. H. Hill, of the North Carolina College of Agriculture, will discuss the pastor's relation to agriculture. The Rev. J. J. Cole, of Jeffersonton, Ky., who has been especially successful in developing a country Sunday school, will preside at the sessions devoted to the consideration of the Sunday school as a vital force in the community. Prof. C. S. Gardner, of the Southern Baptist Seminary, is expected to preside over the session devoted to considering the best methods of developing intellectual and moral life. The closing session will be a symposium of conclusions as formative of a practical program for making the rural church a greater factor in country life development. The railroads have granted a rate of one fare plus 25 cents. Every rural pastor who can possibly do so ought to attend this conference."

Will It Be Enforced?

Mrs. Wm. M. Thompson, of Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with indigestion, sour stomach and bad breath. After taking two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets I am well. These tablets are splendid—none better." For sale by all dealers.

Parcel Post Efficiency.

To add to the popularity of the parcel post, Postmaster General Burleson has signed an order which will permit the attaching of a letter to a package when both bear their respective rates of postage and are addressed to the same individual.

Coloring Diamonds.

Rich women had better be careful in the near future about buying straw-colored diamonds, pink diamonds and such-like fancy stones, for the artificial coloring trick has been revived of late in Paris, where there have been several convictions in the courts.

Irene Celini—so hoary is the dodge—tells how to color a white diamond in his memoirs. As everybody knows, a blue or rose diamond, if perfect, is worth several times as much as a white one. Thus by means of an easy trick, a swindler can increase a diamond's value $5,000 or $10,000.

The fake rose or the fake blue diamond looks as fine as if it were real, but its color fades away in a year or two.

Stomach Trouble Cured.

Mrs. H. G. Cleveland, Arnold, Pa., writes: "For some time I suffered from stomach trouble. I would have sour stomach and feel bloated after eating. Nothing benefited me until I got Chamberlain's Tablets. After taking two bottles of them I was cured." For sale by all dealers.

Thrift.

The American Society for Thrift offers a prize to school children for the best definition of thrift. The prize was won by Hazel Haag of Warren, Penn. Her definition was: "Thrift is management of one's affairs in such a manner that the value of one's possessions is being constantly increased."

Electric Blocks on L. & N.

The L. & N. railroad is installing between Cincinnati and Corbin the electric block system. The blocks work automatically by electricity and it is impossible for one train to enter a section while another train is in it. It will cost a great deal of money, but will prevent many accidents that might otherwise happen, destroying both life and property. The L. & N. is always up to date and mind spending money to keep its system up to the highest standard of efficiency and the saving of life and property.

A Model Husband.

A model husband may be a day laborer who returns to his home at night with a hard earned dollar clasped tight in his right hand, and add it to the family fund to help provide necessary comforts for the family. He shares faithfully with his wife whatever he may earn by trade or profession. When business matters perplex he does not go home with a woeful tale of his hardships and turn the bright side of his character to his associates, but he comes into his home with a cheerful face that inspires his wife with new courage after a day of perplexing duties which women alone have to meet, and in their monotony becomes distasteful to the most of them.

Could It Occur In Kentucky? Why Not?

Convicted on the charge of having made false election returns while serving on the Hoboken, New Jersey, election board in the primary election of September, 1913, thirteen election officers—eight Democrats and five Republicans—were last week sentenced to serve not less than eighteen months nor more than three years in the State prison.

To Try Prison Farm System.

The State Prison Commission is empowered to experiment with the prison farm system for two years. Gov. Mc Creary has signed Senate bill 213, giving them permission to lease land adjoining the two State prisons and take options on available land in case at the 1916 session the General Assembly should decide to purchase farms. Warden A. J. Wells, of the Frankfort Reformatory, already has options to lease when the Prison Commission gets ready to act on them.

Kentucky Grown Coffee.

Few Kentucky people realize that a little corner of Mason county has for years supplied a family of thirteen with home-grown coffee, said to be far superior to the imported Brazilian grades. Mrs. Joseph Litzinger, who lives near Maysville, is the owner of a small patch of coffee bushes and last year raised one hundred pounds for the consumption of her family. The coffee bean she is growing is a German species, and is said to have an excellent flavor.—The Kentuckian.

Ask Uncle Sam.

The editor as an agricultural magazine says that we pay our scientists and experts, but that few of us use them as we might. There is not a worm, a bug, a blight, a disease, or a problem of the soil which is not studied by these hired men of ours and about which they are not anxious to tell us.

At the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington almost any question will be answered by experts free of charge. In such cases not even a stamp is required for reply. They will examine diseased plants and tell what the remedy is, if there is one. Some one has said that the way to tell a toadstool from a mushroom is to eat it—if you die it's a toadstool; but these experts will save you the trouble of dying, and tell you in case of doubt, if you will send them the specimen.

The number of things an observant farmer—especially a young one—wants to know is simply immeasurable. And he can be sure that if there is an answer it will benefit him. The country teacher who wants to rurify her rural school, might well ask for these problems to be brought to the school and sent thence to the experts. Such a policy will do much to bring the Government closer to the farms, and to make the pupils feel that it is really their Government.

The Parlor Dead Line.

An old Irishman named Casey made a lot of money as a contractor and built a fine house for his children. The sons and daughters were much ashamed of the plebeian father, and Casey was always kept in the rear of the house when they had a party or a reception. One day Casey died. There was a great to-do about it. The children had a fine coffin, with lashings of flowers, and Casey was laid in state in the parlor. That evening an old Irish woman who had known Casey when he was a laborer, came and asked to see the face of her dead friend. They conducted her to the parlor.

She walked up to the coffin, took a long look, and said: "Faith, Casey, an' if you die it's a toadstool; but these experts will save you the trouble of dying, and tell you in case of doubt, if you will send them the specimen.

The problem of the married man who squanders his earnings on whisky while his wife sews and takes in washing to support the family has been considered from various angles by philanthropists, scholars, humanitarians and industrial economists, but probably the most unique solution advanced is the following somewhat cynical plan proposed by a Florida editor:

"To the married man who feels that he can't get along without the aid of drink, we would suggest the following:

"Start a saloon in your own home."

"Be the only customer. You will have no license to pay. Go to your wife and give her $2 to buy a gallon of whisky and remember there are sixty-two drinks in one gallon."

"Should you live ten years and continue to buy booze from her and then die with snakes in your boots she will have money enough to bury you, educate your children, buy a house and lot and marry a decent man and quit thinking about you."

GUEST ROOM MADE RESTFUL

One Hostess Insists on Harmony in Color, Even to the Tint of the Soap Used.

A hostess who is noted for her congenial week end parties, which are given all through the summer at a delightful country house out on Long Island, makes a practice of picking up her guestroom soaps while in Paris on shopping bent early in May. There is something about the delicate, elusive fragrance of a French soap which no American made soap seems to emulate, and though, of course, the French varieties cost a good deal more, the distinction imparted to a guestroom in this manner is incontestable.

This particular hostess selects four kinds of soap, in four colors to harmonize with her various guestrooms, done in rose pink, pale green, pale buff and violet and rose. Blue is the color of the bed chamber. The four soaps selected are violet, rose cyclamen and vervaine. The violet soap is in a beautiful shade of lavender, the rose soap in pink, the cyclamen in white and the vervaine in delicate green. Each soap has the fragrance of the flower it typifies and on one side of the cake is stamped the name of the flower.

This hostess keeps also in each guestroom a dainty silk kimono and inexpensive, helpless kid boudoir slippers in the color of the room, so that the overnight or week-end guest who brings only a suitcase is provided with a pretty negligee for breakfast in her room.

DAINTY BONNETS FOR SPRING

Milliners Have Put Out Most Exquisite Designs Suitable for All Kinds of Faces.

When the spring girl goes to choose her spring hat she will be delighted, for all the little shapes are dainty and suitable for all kinds of faces. The characteristics of spring hats are:

They are small, soft and flexible. There are many tam crowned hats, and these tams must be draped into the brim.

Scarcely any chip or hard straws are to be seen, and there are few black hats.

The newest colors for spring hats are morocco, tobacco, charmeuse, cucumber, gazelle leaf and bishop's purple.

Very little trimming is required for the hats, and really good shapes will be obtainable for only a few shillings.

All-white hats will be the summer favorites, and many shady "coon"-shaped hats are made of grass bleached white.

The white hats are very fascinating and very simple in design, and need practically a minimum of trimming.

The day of the heavy hat is over—all the hats for both summer and winter are as light as paper.

FASHION HINTS

The newest coats hang very loose and fall from the shoulders.

Challis is to be one of the fashion-able materials for spring.

Popular in combination are antique blue and tobacco brown.

In the new spring the smartest colors are dust colors and navy blue.

Some new sashes are made of brocaded velvet, ribbon, moire or silk.

For evening, smart women are wearing the hair dressed high on the head.

There is a craze for the weird, spike-like feathered trimming fantasies.

Shepherd's plaid is a material which will be extensively used this spring.

The flat-heeled shoes are not so popular; heels of exaggerated height will be worn.

New is the suggestion of the bustle in most of the new spring models.

Pretty collars, guimpes and chemisettes are made of net, in white or cream.

STRIKING SPRING HAT

Model of picot straw, trimmed with tulle and ostrich feathers.

To Clean Black Jet.

First brush the jet free from dust, then apply a little olive oil with a brush and polish with camphor.

"Buy your drinks from no one but your wife, and by the time the first gallon is gone she will have $6 to put in the bank and $2 to start business on again."

"Should you live ten years and continue to buy booze from her and then die with snakes in your boots she will have money enough to bury you, educate your children, buy a house and lot and marry a decent man and quit thinking about you."

FLORIDA GENEROUS TO VETERANS

Pays Out More Money to Sustain Old Soldiers

Than Any Other Southern State and Builids Monuments to Memory—Confederate Reunion May 6, 7, 8, at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla.—The State of Florida pays out more money per capita for the support of dependent ex-Confederate soldiers than any other Southern State. This fact should be sufficient to convince ex-Confederates everywhere that when they and their descendants visit Jacksonville on the occasion of the 24th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veteran's Association that they will be in the hands of their friends. The reunion will be held May 6, 7, 8.

The handsome total of $600,000 per annum is being paid by the state for support of ex-Confederate pensioners. The average yearly amount paid to each person on the pension list, according to the latest report of the State Board of Pensions, is $121.25, while the average paid to old soldiers is $122.30. Widows of Confederate soldiers draw an average of $120 per annum. Since the report from which these figures are taken was made, the legislature has passed a still more liberal pension law, which will authorize additional payments of approximately $150,000 a year, making the total $750,000 per annum paid to Confederate pensioners by the state.

There are 2,633 soldier pensioners on the rolls of the state and 2,227 widows of Confederates, making a total of 4,860. The fund to support this pension roll is raised by a tax of four mills on the assessed property of the taxpayer.

Florida is not only caring for the living but the memory of the dead is also kept green. Throughout the state handsome Confederate monuments have been erected by both public and private means. All told there are twenty, or possibly more, handsome monuments in the state, and others are yet to be erected. A home for ex-Confederate soldiers is maintained at Jacksonville. Last year the state appropriated $5,000 to the Confederate soldiers' home in this city. Two Confederate monuments have been erected here, and a monument may be dedicated to the women of the Confederacy during the coming reunion.

This brief exposition of the work that Florida is doing for the ex-Confederate soldiers, living and dead, is proof that the people of the state will extend a warm and generous welcome to the old soldiers and their friends on the occasion of the Jacksonville reunion.

Stepping Some.

The Cynthiana Democrat says few girls begin married life so auspiciously as Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President, when she weds Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. She is 24 and he is 50 years old. When she marries she will become a wife, a step-mother, a step-grandmother and a step-mother-in-law. All of which is stepping some, to say nothing of the tango steps with which the lucky Secretary is said to have won her.

Not On The Map.

Mrs. Norman had a maid, Jane, who had a lover in the army. One day, after receiving a letter from him, she sought her mistress and asked if she might see a map. A while after she returned to Mrs. Norman again and said she could not find the place where her lover was.

"Where is it, do you say, Jane?" asked the mistress.

"Duranceville," replied Jane, after another careful perusal of the letter.

Mrs. Norman searched the map, but no such place could be found.

"Jane," she said, "please let me see the part of the letter which gives the name of the place where he was."

Jane complied, and Mrs. Norman read:

"I am in Durance ville, but hope soon to be sent home."—National Monthly.

Serum For The Treatment of Pneumonia Found.

Discovery of a specific serum for the treatment of lobar pneumonia was announced last week in New York by the Rockefeller Institute, for medical research. In a statement sent to physicians, the institute announces that it is prepared to treat patients suffering from the disease in acute form. Results of experiments indicate the efficiency of the discovery in lowering the mortality from this malady, the statement says:

"The work of evolving the serum out of many experimental cultures was under the direction of Dr. Rufus Cole, medical director of the institute, and has been in progress for the past three years. For the preparation of the serum, a culture of the germs is prepared for injection into the blood of a healthy animal, the horse being used in this case.

Coincidentally it was announced from Bellevue Hospital that pneumonia serum developed in its laboratories was recently used successfully upon a staff physician of that institution.

Beautifying The Farm Yard.

To Minnesota, pioneer in many campaigns for agricultural ascendancy and rural betterment, other states must turn repeatedly for ideas and suggestions for the encouragement of the general well-being of the farmer and his family. It is well for agricultural exponents to keep an eye on that State, one of whose recent actions was to provide its people with plans and specifications for a model farm house. However, not content to stop there, Minnesota's State Art Commission has started in to secure complete plans and designs for the arranging, planting and beautifying of the State's farmyards.

Landscape architects have been invited to submit their sketches and ideas and prizes will be awarded for the most practical and acceptable designs. The designs are to be adapted to the model farm house plan selected a year ago, but they will be acceptable for all average farm residences. They are to provide a farmyard an acre in size, presumably upon a knoll facing the country road and will show the disposition of trees, shrubs, hardy flowers and vines.

The absorbing beauty of the country with its broad stretches of plain and woodland, its waving grain, its pastures dotted with beasts of the field, all beckoning the city sojourner back to the land, is a tradition old and true. Children of the farms turn their faces on woodland and pastureland, despite them, because of muddy, untidy farmyards. The old-fashioned flower gardens with their morning glories, hollyhocks, foxcomb, snapdragons and gladiolas, than which no dream of landscape artist can excel, are becoming rarer and rarer.

Agricultural aids today are branching out from the mere practice of helping the farmer grow bigger crops and better crops. They are helping the farm wives, and they are going further. They are assisting the rural community life, but they are not stopping there. They are putting the little beauty touches upon the farm home and surroundings, encouraging good taste in decoration, and dedicating the farmyard to better and more hopeful living. Life is what we have to enjoy as well as what we may have to do. Then, when Minnesota adopts its model farm plans, it will be good for this and other states to apply similar methods to make the farm more worth while.

A rare sight was witnessed recently in the heart of the city of Auburn, New York, when more than 1,000 wild ducks, driven by hunger from Owasco Lake, then completely frozen over, to take shelter on the Owasco river, were seen accepting food thrown to them from houses and factories that line the banks.

Mr. Harry M. Rubey, of Macon, Mo., writes thus to Missouri stockmen: "I have made a business of horseback riding every day, rain or shine, warm or cold, for years, and as a result have not known what it was to be sick for thirty years. If every business man in this country would buy himself a good saddle horse and ride daily, one half of the doctors would go out of business. My daily average is ten miles."

The silo is the best barn on the farm. It holds forage of unsurpassed quality and quantity and it is always ready for feeding. It will pay for itself the first year and it is indispensable where ten or more head of cattle are kept. The feed in a silo will keep indefinitely. Silage is as food for summer when pastures are as dry as it is in winter. It is good for horses, mules, cows and calves, dry cattle and sheep. Silage is green corn preserved for winter use, with all the juices retained. A silo makes corn stalks as valuable as the corn in the crib. A silo full of ensilage is worth more than a big barn full of hay.

DEATHS

Died at his home at Waco, Tuesday evening, March 31, at 8:30 o'clock, Leland Maupin, familiarly known by his friends as Lee. He had been in poor health for several months, the immediate cause of his death being cancer of the stomach, or some stomach trouble akin to it. He was the son of Leland Maupin, of this county, his mother being a Miss Moore, also of this county. Lee was born and reared in Madison and was well known, and had many friends in all parts of the county. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Walker Covington, of near Waco, his brother, Walter Maupin, and two half brothers, Braxton and Julian, of this county. After shore services by Rev. W. S. Taylor, of the Baptist church, at his home in Waco, his remains were laid to rest Thursday in the Richmond Cemetery.

A sad death it was, Wednesday, April 1, when Mrs. J. G. Baxter, passed from life unto death at home on the Sunnyside, in this city. She had been in ill health for some months, and had spent a time at Ridge Ridge Springs hoping thus to be benefited, but, receiving no benefit, returned home and grew gradually worse until the end came. She was in her 32nd year, hardly yet in the bloom of mature womanhood, when the Master called her. Before her marriage she was Miss Hattie Lee Baldwin, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baldwin, both deceased. She leaves a devoted husband and two children, Zerelda, aged 12, and an infant boy of eight months, two brothers, Lew and Edward, and a sister, Mrs. W. E. Taylor, of this county, besides many relatives and friends.

Mrs. Baxter was a lovely and lovable woman, a devoted wife, a fond mother and a true Christian. Her home was her castle, her children were her jewels.

Funeral services were held at her late residence Thursday afternoon, Elders E. B. Barnes and Owen Young officiating, after which her body was laid gently to rest in Richmond's city of the dead.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away."

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock a. m. the death angel came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stoney Maupin and took from their fair embrace little Fannie Catherine, their thirteen month old in fact. She was stricken with pneumonia and death was the visitor after only a few hours. Brief services will be held at their home on Estill avenue, Wednesday at 10 a. m., thence her burial in Richmond Cemetery.

Dear Amy:-
Laura has just been over to see me to tell me about her troubles. She lost that maid she had that was such a treasure. Now, if she'd buy linoleum for a kitchen floor, as I've begged her to do, she wouldn't have so much trouble keeping clean. It makes a kitchen or bathroom so much easier to keep clean, and besides, it always gives them a more attractive appearance. I've bought pretty new mats for my bedrooms this summer. They give the rooms a rest, and are more sanitary, also. Come over and see them. Baby John dearly loves to play in the kitchen now.

Bye Bye.

On Friday, April 3, Mrs. Wm. Devore passed her sixty-fifth milestone on the journey of life. Her friends remembered her with a Post Card Shower. Her children, too, did not forget the day. Each one presented her with a gift of flowers. It was a beautiful tribute of love and affection, given by sons and daughters to a devoted and fond mother, and well deserved, too, by that faithful mother of forty years or more. A dinner was served, only the immediate family being present. Good-byes and "God bless you" were said and thus the day ended, long to be remembered.

Gov. McCreary at Winchester

Gov. McCreary opened his campaign for U. S. Senator at Winchester Monday. A large and enthusiastic gathering of friends and admirers greeted him. Friends in numbers not only from Clark county but from Madison and adjoining counties were largely in evidence. The Governor made a fine speech on a high plane, no abuse, no belittling of any opponent. He declared that he intended to make the contest entirely upon his past democratic record and his ability to lead the party to victory in the final election of a Senator to take the place of Hon. W. O. Bradley and not upon the demerits or the mistakes of any of his opponents.

City Council.

Regular meeting of the City Council was held Thursday evening last. All councilmen present and Mayor Rice in the chair. Regular routine business was taken up and disposed of. The principal business was the question of building of a city work house and letting by contract the labor of city prisoners. This question had come up at the March meeting a month ago and at Mayor Rice's suggestion was postponed in order to allow the taxpayers think it over and an urgent appeal through the city papers was made to citizens generally to attend the Council meeting and express fully their opinions. After some discussion the vote was taken and resulted in a tie. The Mayor then voted "No" and thus the proposition was defeated. Mayor Rice believes that under the present conditions it would be unwise for the city to undertake the matter, that at some future time it would perhaps be the wisest thing to do, but not now.

Squire Jones was elected driver of the fire department in place of Gen. Nelson, resigned.

The Phelps Sale.

The sale of land and personal property of the late Marcus A. Phelps took place Friday last. A large crowd was on hand and everything sold well. Tom Fox purchased 57 1/2 acres adjoining his farm at $105 per acre. The home place, with about 200 acres, was sold as a single widow's dower. The rest of the land was bought by the sons of Mr. Phelps. D. Mack Phelps got 13 3/4 acres at $90 and 11 1/2 acres at $62.50; Rufus Phelps bought 133 acres at $10; S.M. Phelps got 156 acres at $67.50, having bought this privately before the sale. Mules brought from $210 to $337 per pair; corn sold at $1.50 to $4.00; cattle very close to 10c; hogs 5c; farming implements brought good prices. Long Tom Chenault handled the sale in his usual hustling and business-like manner and secured lively bidding and good prices throughout.

Death of Miss Hazel Whitlock.

When the spirit of Hazel Whitlock took its flight and waited its way back to the God who gave it, the light of a beautiful young life went out.

Miss Whitlock was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Whitlock. She was stricken with pneumonia, and her frail body could not withstand an attack of this dread disease. From the first it was thought that she could not recover.

She passed away after a little more than a week's illness, in the early hours of Friday morning soon after 12 o'clock. Quietly and peacefully she passed from life unto death.

"So softly death succeeded life in her, She did but dream of heaven and she was there."

Miss Whitlock was in her twenty-first year: just budding into bright, beautiful womanhood.

"Standing with reluctant feet, Where the brook and river meet, Womanhood and childhood fleet."

Besides her father and mother, she leaves a brother, Prof. Newton Whitlock, of Montana, and a sister, Mrs. G. Stoecker, of this city, and many relatives and friends.

Brief funeral services were held at the family residence on the Tates Creek pike Saturday afternoon, conducted by Elders E. B. Barnes and C. K. Marshall. A large concourse of friends followed her body when it was laid to rest in Richmond Cemetery.

When the last prayer at the grave was ended, the last word spoken, the family and friends moved sadly and slowly away, leaving under a bank of flowers the mortal remains of Hazel Whitlock.

IN MEMORIAM.
(Contributed)

"With a cherry smile and a wave of the hand, She has wandered into an unknown land, And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there."

"None knew her but to love her" can most fittingly be spoken of Hazel Whitlock, this friend, who has passed from our midst.

Her young life was singularly bright and beautiful. Old and young were glad to claim her as a friend, for she possessed to a rare degree the power of radiating happiness. To her friends she was ever true and sympathetic; toward all she manifested good will; she spoke no unkind word nor cherished an unkind feeling. Her joyous laugh, her sweet, kind words and deeds, will remain with all of us and make us feel the happier because it was Hazel who spoke them.

In the lovely cemetery, which she so often visited with her schoolmates, she now sleeps, lulled by the music of the wind, the rustling of the leaves and the murmuring grass, but her gentle spirit lives behind her in the hearts of those friends who feel with me that the Great Gardener too truly gathers from among His flowers, the choicest to brighten and sweeten His mansions above.

Friends in numbers not only from Clark county but from Madison and adjoining counties were largely in evidence. The Governor made a fine speech on a high plane, no abuse, no belittling of any opponent. He declared that he intended to make the contest entirely upon his past democratic record and his ability to lead the party to victory in the final election of a Senator to take the place of Hon. W. O. Bradley and not upon the demerits or the mistakes of any of his opponents.

City Council.

Regular meeting of the City Council was held Thursday evening last. All councilmen present and Mayor Rice in the chair. Regular routine business was taken up and disposed of. The principal business was the question of building of a city work house and letting by contract the labor of city prisoners. This question had come up at the March meeting a month ago and at Mayor Rice's suggestion was postponed in order to allow the taxpayers think it over and an urgent appeal through the city papers was made to citizens generally to attend the Council meeting and express fully their opinions. After some discussion the vote was taken and resulted in a tie. The Mayor then voted "No" and thus the proposition was defeated. Mayor Rice believes that under the present conditions it would be unwise for the city to undertake the matter, that at some future time it would perhaps be the wisest thing to do, but not now.

Squire Jones was elected driver of the fire department in place of Gen. Nelson, resigned.

The Phelps Sale.

The sale of land and personal property of the late Marcus A. Phelps took place Friday last. A large crowd was on hand and everything sold well. Tom Fox purchased 57 1/2 acres adjoining his farm at $105 per acre. The home place, with about 200 acres, was sold as a single widow's dower. The rest of the land was bought by the sons of Mr. Phelps. D. Mack Phelps got 13 3/4 acres at $90 and 11 1/2 acres at $62.50; Rufus Phelps bought 133 acres at $10; S.M. Phelps got 156 acres at $67.50, having bought this privately before the sale. Mules brought from $210 to $337 per pair; corn sold at $1.50 to $4.00; cattle very close to 10c; hogs 5c; farming implements brought good prices. Long Tom Chenault handled the sale in his usual hustling and business-like manner and secured lively bidding and good prices throughout.

Death of Miss Hazel Whitlock.

When the spirit of Hazel Whitlock took its flight and waited its way back to the God who gave it, the light of a beautiful young life went out.

Miss Whitlock was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Whitlock. She was stricken with pneumonia, and her frail body could not withstand an attack of this dread disease. From the first it was thought that she could not recover.

She passed away after a little more than a week's illness, in the early hours of Friday morning soon after 12 o'clock. Quietly and peacefully she passed from life unto death.

"So softly death succeeded life in her, She did but dream of heaven and she was there."

Miss Whitlock was in her twenty-first year: just budding into bright, beautiful womanhood.

"Standing with reluctant feet, Where the brook and river meet, Womanhood and childhood fleet."

Besides her father and mother, she leaves a brother, Prof. Newton Whitlock, of Montana, and a sister, Mrs. G. Stoecker, of this city, and many relatives and friends.

Brief funeral services were held at the family residence on the Tates Creek pike Saturday afternoon, conducted by Elders E. B. Barnes and C. K. Marshall. A large concourse of friends followed her body when it was laid to rest in Richmond Cemetery.

When the last prayer at the grave was ended, the last word spoken, the family and friends moved sadly and slowly away, leaving under a bank of flowers the mortal remains of Hazel Whitlock.

IN MEMORIAM.
(Contributed)

"With a cherry smile and a wave of the hand, She has wandered into an unknown land, And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there."

"None knew her but to love her" can most fittingly be spoken of Hazel Whitlock, this friend, who has passed from our midst.

Her young life was singularly bright and beautiful. Old and young were glad to claim her as a friend, for she possessed to a rare degree the power of radiating happiness. To her friends she was ever true and sympathetic; toward all she manifested good will; she spoke no unkind word nor cherished an unkind feeling. Her joyous laugh, her sweet, kind words and deeds, will remain with all of us and make us feel the happier because it was Hazel who spoke them.

In the lovely cemetery, which she so often visited with her schoolmates, she now sleeps, lulled by the music of the wind, the rustling of the leaves and the murmuring grass, but her gentle spirit lives behind her in the hearts of those friends who feel with me that the Great Gardener too truly gathers from among His flowers, the choicest to brighten and sweeten His mansions above.

H. H. Colyer For State Auditor.

Our esteemed Democratic servant, H. H. Colyer, is proving to be a State-wide leader in securing winning endorsements through the pushers of democracy in support of his ambition to be State Auditor, subject to the decision of the Democratic primary, August, 1915. This news is certainly gratifying to us, as well as to all Kentuckians who know him. The general public expression is: "Yes, I am for Colyer for any office within our party." If the Democratic editors of Kentucky knew him as we do, they would cheerfully assist in pushing him to victory. The public needs just such men as Mr. Colyer in official positions.

You cannot place him wrong. On interviewing Mr. Colyer, we received the following report, which we are glad to get and certainly will support. He said:

"The reliable pledges made to me from every section of the State are sufficient to warrant my being a strong factor in the race, regardless of any political primary conditions that may arise. I am certain that my chances to win are exceedingly flattering. I know that I have a reliable following in Central and Eastern Kentucky that will be embarrassing to them that might seek to thwart my prospects. The Democratic forces at home are a unit in support of my aspirations."

"I am going to fight for my chances.

"I was born and reared in the Eleventh District. My relatives and friends are scattered over a large portion of the State. I have fought the battles of Democracy for years without flinching. I knew nothing but loyalty to my party nominee. My political record is open for inspection. The past whispered suspicion of what I am now stating, may be transformed into the knowledge that I am in to stay and will fight to win.

noble act of freedom, every citizen to-day, chopper, can now have his vote registered as he desires at the polls. This special privileges to none.

"Now, the further fact that these rights of suffrage are granted to a sovereign people, is an accepted definition of political equality.

"I believe that every aspirant's ambition should be measured by his loyalty and party service from the beginning of his freedom. Those are a few of my strong reasons that have inspired me with a confidence that a credible magent in the Democrats of Kentucky will, in August, 1915, reward me with the honor and authority of the office of State Auditor."

INDIGESTION OVERCOME

Overcome by Simple Remedy.

Hurried and careless habits of eating, irregular meals and foods that do not harmonize, tend to weaken the digestive organs and result in different forms of stomach trouble.

If you are one of the unfortunate who have drifted into this condition, eat simple foods only, slowly, regularly and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, Thomasville, Ga., says: "I suffered from a stomach trouble, was tired, worn out and nervous. A friend advised me to take Vinol. My stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have a perfect digestion and I wish every tired, weak woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good."

The recovery of Mrs. Smith was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol. We will return the purchase money every time Vinol fails to benefit.

A Bashful Suitor.

"There is a lady of my acquaintance," says Marshall P. Wilder, "who has in her establishment as cook a most prepossessing Irish girl. It follows, as a matter of course that the cook has many admirers. In fact, her mistress asserts that the kitchen is seldom of an evening without a caller. Recently the lady of the house, who, though she disapproves of a cook having so many callers, yet hesitates to rebuke her for fear of losing her valuable services, referred to the advent of a new admirer."

"How is it, Maggie," queried the mistress, "that when this latest beau of yours is in the kitchen with you of an evening one never hears a sound?"

"Oh, mom," responded the girl with a broad grin, "as yet the poor fellow is that bashful he does nuthin' but ate."

Be a Sunshine Radiator.

Making "sunshine" that will spread into a million other lives is an occupation open to every man, whatever his other occupation may be. A Philadelphia business man tells of the joy he finds in riding in a certain trolley car, which he says has a "sunshine radiator" at each end—a conductor who seizes every opportunity to help his passengers and a motorman who whistles the waggons off the track, and waves a smile at every driver he passes. This business man is but one of many that have caught the message of this unusual kindness and its unusual results, and he passed it on to his hundreds of employees as an incentive towards a brighter atmosphere in their establishment. It is a Christian's special privilege to be a Sunshine Radiator, and no corner is too obscure to be a starting point for infinite rays of light and joy.—Sunday School Times.

B. Juett and Son

Not Like Father:

An old Irishman who had made a good deal of money, but who wasn't very particular about his habits or conduct, lived in Chicago. His custom was to go down town about once a month on a spree, and then come back home and beat up his family and break up the furniture. His aged wife who had stood him for many years, was blind. Finally he died and his children gave him a fine funeral. They had plenty of money now that the old man was dead, and so they spread themselves. At the church there was an elaborate ceremony. The blind widow was dissolved in woe. She cried and cried all through the services, paying scant heed to what was going on until the eulogy was pronounced. She listened. The priest referred to the dead man in glowing terms. After ten minutes of this the aged widow nudged her son and whispered: "Daddy do they have two funerals here today?"

The Dog's Life of Devotion.

It is a deep mystery, this animal world in which we live and of which we are an integral part.

Since the dawn of history the dog has distinguished himself for notable deeds of courage, devotion, fidelity and affection. No other animal on earth is so fond of a man and so loyal to him. The dog's life is given up to the service of his master whom he looks up to and worships as if he regarded him a deity. The dog has a religion in which his human master is his God. The only heaven a dog knows is a welcome place in the heart of him whom he delights to serve. With that possession his happiness is complete.

Human friends may prove deceitful, false and treacherous, but the dog's friendship is unfailing and enduring. It is proof against all temptations. If every other friend in the world turns traitor to a man, his dog will stand by him and refuse to "turn him down." When dire misfortune overtakes the master, his dog is the one true friend who does not desert him in his extremity, but clings the closer to him. And at the end, that last sad scene that come to all—friends, home and family gone—the loving and devoted companion of poverty, want and rags, the ever-faithful and loving dog, follows his master's lifeless body to an unmarked grave, and there prone upon a cold, damp mound of clay, he lays his head between his paws and mourns a requiem until he dies of grief.

The dog's sincere love, unswerving devotion and rare fidelity have shone in song and story since the dawn of civilization. There can be no reasonable doubt that we share a common nature and a common fate with our mute fellow-creatures around us, which we are pleased to call "lower animals," and it may be that our poor dumb relations share a common destiny with us.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who for nearly a half century represented the heart and brains of the Christian clergy of America, in the course of an eloquent sermon on "Men and Other Animals," declared: "Why, if horses and dogs have not souls to be saved, what in Heaven's name will become of their masters? For fidelity and devotion, for love and loyalty, many a two-legged animal is far below the dog and horse. Happy would it be for thousands of people if they could stand at last before the judgment seat of Christ and truthfully say, 'I have loved as truly, I have lived as decently as my dog.' And yet we speak of the dog as being 'only a brute.'—Our Dumb Animals."

Reducing Tobacco Acreage.

Two of the tobacco growers' organizations in Western Kentucky have voted unanimously to curtail the tobacco acreage. These organizations are located in what is known as the stemming district where prices in the last two years have not been satisfactory to the producers.

Tobacco prices unquestionably would be better if the growers did not over-reach themselves in acreage. It is not an easy matter to limit production. A movement by organized growers to reduce the acreage usually results in a corresponding effort on the part of the independent growers to put out larger crops. It is a fact, also, that some of those who vote for the curtailment of acreage expect the other fellow to do all the curtailing. These contrive by evasion of one kind and another to grow their usual amount of the weed, hoping to profit by the reduction of acreage by those who scrupulously observe their acreage.

The growers' organizations are trying to systematize the production and marketing of tobacco, and, in truth, the system is greatly needed. So long as so many of the tobacco farmers sacrifice quality while striving for quantity in their crops there will be complaint of unsatisfactory returns. It is not possible to bring all the growers into any sort of an association, and it is difficult to induce some of those who enter into the pooling agreement to stand hatched. Possibly the organizations themselves are lacking in system, but they are persisting and it is presumable that while they are living they are learning.

There is no doubt that if the growers could be induced to line up together compactly for a reduced acreage and for co-operative selling they could control the tobacco situation—at least to the extent that fair prices would be forthcoming for their product. The present tendency is in that direction. How long it will be before the organization reaches such a state of undoubted efficiency is merely a matter of surmise.

as much a factor in the scheme of dress as shoes. A few years back women disdained the thought of conspicuously embroidered stockings, but today nothing is too elaborate. For instance, a pair of dull blue suede slippers are accompanied by a pair of dull blue silk hose, elaborately embroidered in soft tones, with shaped medallions enclosing a small bouquet of miniature roses. Another pair of green suede slippers, ornamented with soft colored bows and laced with ribbons of a matching color, are fastened with a jade buckle, set in a heavy rim of dull gold and are accompanied by a pair of lattice-work silk hose of the same shade. Another pair of dull green suede slippers fastened with straps over the instep have pearl buttons, and are accompanied by sheer silk hose of the same shade embroidered on the ankle with a flower and leaf design. Another pair of black and white slippers with black heels and black bows are perforated in order to show ribbons. A pair of dainty stockings with scroll design on the ankle are worn with these. Still another pair of slippers of black suede are accompanied by a pair of pale green stockings. The shoes have cameo buckles set in a dull gold rim. This time the stockings are embroidered in dull gold, in a conventional design at the ankle.

Some women who go in for the spectacular will be interested in the hose, which have gayly colored animals and insects inset with semi-precious stones. For instance, one pair of hose seen in a New York shop window was ornamented at the instep with a tiny chameleon in imitation emeralds. Another pair of hose in black silk showed on the instep a scarlet lobster embroidered with red silk thread. Still another pair of silk hose in a dainty shade of gray had a tiny gray mouse with pink eyes. Many are the hose embroidered in flower designs, self-tones or natural colors. One pair was decked with morning glories in all the lovely shades of the flowers; another with forget-me-nots, and a third pair of black silk stockings was adorned with yellow daisies.

Buttons are Larger.

One of the predominating features of the spring suits, as being shown in advanced models in Paris, is buttons. Buttons seem to be made out of every substance—some seem to be made out of pebbles, some out of agate, and some out of amber. They are larger than ever, and long bar shapes, and balls seem to be most favored. Colors are decidedly vivid.

For the Small Room.

If you wish to write or sew and have no space for a table in the tiny hall bedroom get a board of proper size, pull out a dresser drawer, place the board on top, and you have a table without having to remove everything from the dresser. A heavy board is best, and a leaf from an extension table would be just the thing, and it could be hidden in the closet when not in use.

JACKSONVILLE AND THE REUNION

Veterans Will Find a Modern, Progressive City

Many Points of Historic Interest To Be Visited By Survivors of Gray Army During Week.

Jacksonville, Fla.—When the Confederate veterans and their friends assemble here for their 24th annual reunion, they will be introduced to a city and community, proud of the present and loyal to the ideals of the old South. Making Jacksonville the hub of a wheel twenty-five miles in diameter, a territory is covered rich in historic associations and interest and at the same time a fit exponent of all that is progressive in the Southern States.

Jacksonville is a city of 85,000 population, with handsome business blocks, modern skyscrapers, commodious hotels and residence sections that compare favorably with the best in the country. The city's business has grown into large proportions, embracing every line known to a modern city. Jacksonville of to-day is in all respects a thriving center of trade and commerce, much of its commerce going across the seas into foreign countries on ocean steamships. Its transportation facilities are superb, both by rail and water. Railroads feeding the great Florida Peninsula center here. Thousands of tourists and uncounted tons of freight pass through the city and port every year, the one hunting health and pleasure, the other scattering out over the civilized world to do its part in supplying the demands of the consumers of the earth.

And while the visitors are enjoying this view and prospect of modern business and community thrift, they will be given an opportunity to look down the past three hundred and fifty years. All of this territory was in dispute three and a half centuries ago between the French and Spanish, with the wild Indian holding the balance of power between the combatants. The Frenchman and the Spaniard both laid claim to the Florida territory. Which was first to discover it is a matter over which historians differ, but it is well authenticated that the first white men to set foot upon the soil now covered by Jacksonville were Frenchmen under Rene Laudonniere.

The first white man to enter the mouth of the St. Johns river was Jean Ribault, in command of a company of Huguenots, who had left France because of religious persecutions. He made his landing on May 1, 1562, fifty years after the landing of Ponce de Leon at a point to the south of Jacksonville. Some historians are of the opinion that Ponce de Leon sailed as far north as the mouth of the St. Johns, but the weight of evidence is against this opinion. If he were here he left no trace. The evidence is that he did not travel in direction from his original landing that would have brought him to the vicinity of Jacksonville. It is thoroughly established that Ribault entered the mouth of the St. Johns river May 1, 1562, and sailed up the river some miles to bluff, where he erected a stone column on which was inscribed the arms of France. But Ribault did not ascend the river as high as Jacksonville. He went from the mouth of the river to Port Royal, S.C.

In 1664, one year after the departure of Ribault, Rene Laudonniere, who had been with Ribault on the first expedition, came to the mouth of the St. Johns with another colony of Huguenots, and ascended the river as far as the present site of Jacksonville, camping probably on the south side of the river on territory now covered by South Jacksonville. These were the first white men to penetrate the country above the mouth of the river. In honor of the day of discovery, May 1, Ribault gave the river the name of May, and this stood until the Spaniards whipped out the French, some years later. The Spaniards called it the River San Mateo at first, but later changed its name to San Juan. From this it finally became the St. Johns. Old Fort Caroline was situated at St. John's bluff some miles below the city of Jacksonville. No sign of this historic fort remains, not even a slab to commemorate its mournful story.

During the reunion, steamboat excursions will be run to all these points of historic interest on the St. Johns river. It is but twenty-seven miles from Jacksonville to the mouth of the St. Johns, where the government has constructed, with the aid of Jacksonville, and the State of Florida, a system of jetties, deepened the water on the bar and otherwise protected navigation. In passing between Jacksonville and the jetties, the visitor will have no trouble locating the sites of old forts that were erected nearly four hundred years ago by the French and Spanish. The trip is one of the most delightful in the Southern States.

While Jacksonville has not advertised itself as a large manufacturing city, of recent years many large industrial plants have been established, giving employment to 5,000 wage-earners and turning out $14,000,000 to $15,000,000 worth of products per annum. In variety of products, the city makes a showing that few other communities can equal. New industries are secured almost every month, and the Board of Trade, one of the most active in the South, is steadily pushing a campaign for more industrial establishments.

"There is a lady of my acquaintance," says Marshall P. Wilder, "who has in her establishment as cook a most prepossessing Irish girl. Recently the lady of the house who, though she disapproves of a cook having so many callers, yet hesitates to rebuke her for fear of losing her valuable services, referred to the advent of a new admirer."

"Oh, mum," responded the girl with a broad grin, "as yet the poor fellow is that bashful he does naughtin' but ate."

Be a Sunshine Radiator.

Making "sunshine" that will spread into a million other lives is an occupation open to every man, whatever his other occupation may be. A Philadelphia business man tells of the joy he has in riding in a certain trolley car, which he says has a "sunshine radiator," at each end—a conductor who seizes every opportunity to help his passengers and a motorman who whistles the wangs of the track, and waves a smile at every driver he passes. This business man is but one of many that have caught the message of this unusual kindness and its unusual results, and he passed it on to his hundreds of employees as an incentive towards a brighter atmosphere in their establishment. It is a Christian's special privilege to be a Sunshine Radiator, and no corner is too obscure to be a starting point for infinite rays of light and joy.—Sunday School Times.

B. Juett and Son

Not Like Father.

An old Irishman who had made a good deal of money, but who wasn't very particular about his habits or conduct, lived in Chicago. His custom was to go downtown about once a month on a spree, and then come back home and beat up his family and break up the furniture. His aged wife who had stood him for many years, was blind. Finally he died and his children gave him a final funeral. They had plenty of money now that the old man was dead, and so they spread themselves. At the church there was elaborate ceremony. The blind widow was dissolved in woe. She cried and cried all through the services paying scant heed to what was going on until the eulogy was pronounced. She listened. The priest referred to the dead man in glowing terms. After about ten minutes of this the aged widow nudged her son and whispered: "Daddy do you know we have two funerals here today?"

The Dog's Life of Devotion.

It is a deep mystery, this animal world in which we live and of which we are an integral part.

Since the dawn of history the dog has distinguished himself for notable deeds of courage, devotion, fidelity and affection. No other animal on earth is so fond of a man and so loyal to him. The dog's life is given up to the service of his master whom he looks up to and worships as if he regarded him a deity.

The dog has a religion in which his human master is his God. The only heaven a dog knows is a welcome place in the heart of him whom he delights to serve. With that possession his happiness is complete.

Human friends may prove deceitful, and treacherous, but the dog's friendship is unfailing and enduring. It is proof against all temptations. If every other friend in the world turns traitor to a man, his dog will stand by him and refuse to "turn him down."

When dire misfortune overtakes the master, his dog is the true friend who does not desert him in his extremity, but clings the closer to him. And at the end, that last sad scene that come to all—friends, home and family gone—the loving and devoted companion of poverty, want and rags, the ever-faithful and loving dog, follows his master's lifeless body to an unmarked grave, and there prone upon a cold, damp mound of clay, he lays his head between his paws and mourns a requiem until he dies of grief.

The dog's sincere love, unswerving devotion and rare fidelity have shone in song and story since the dawn of civilization. There can be no reasonable doubt that we share a common nature and a common fate with our mute fellow-creatures around us, which we are pleased to call, "lower animals," and it may be that our poor dumb relations share a common destiny with us.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, who for nearly half a century represented the heart and brains of the Christian clergy of America, in the course of an eloquent sermon on "Men and Other Animals," declared: "Why, if horses and dogs have not souls to be saved, what in Heaven's name will become of their masters?" For fidelity and devotion, for love and loyalty, many a two-legged animal is far below the dog and horse. Happy would it be for thousands of people if they could stand at last before the judgment seat of Christ and truthfully say, "I have loved as truly, I have lived as decently as my dog." And yet we speak of the dog as being "only a brute."—Our Dumb Animals.

Reducing Tobacco Acreage.

Two of the tobacco growers' organizations in Western Kentucky have voted unanimously to curtail the tobacco acreage. These organizations are located in what is known as the stemming district where prices in the last two years have not been satisfactory to the producers.

Tobacco prices unquestionably would better if the growers did not over-reach themselves in acreage. It is not an easy matter to limit production.

A movement by organized growers to reduce the acreage usually results in a corresponding effort on the part of the independent growers to put out larger crops. It is a fact, also, that some of those who vote for the curtailment of acreage expect the other fellow to do all the curtailing. These contrive by evasion of one kind and another to grow their usual amount of the weed, hoping to profit by the reduction of acreage by those who scrupulously observe their agreements.

The growers' organizations are trying to systematize the production and marketing of tobacco and, in truth, the system is greatly needed. So long as so many of the tobacco farmers sacrifice quality while striving for quantity in their crops there will be complaint of unsatisfactory returns. It is not possible to bring all the growers into any sort of an association, and it is difficult to induce some of those who enter into the pooling agreement to stand hatched. Possibly the organizations themselves are lacking in system, but they are persisting and it is presumable that while they are living they are learning.

There is no doubt that if the growers could be induced to line up together compactly for a reduced acreage and for co-operative selling they could control the tobacco situation—at least to the extent that fair prices would be forthcoming for their product. The present tendency is in that direction. How long it will be before the organization reaches such a state of undoubted efficiency is merely a matter of surmise.

Another pair of dull green suede slippers fastened with straps over the instep have pearl buttons, and are accompanied by sheer silk hose of the same shade embroidered on the ankle with a flower and leaf design. Another pair of black and white slippers with black heels and black bows are perforated in order to show ribbons. A pair of dainty stockings with scroll design on the ankle are worn with these. Still another pair of slippers of black suede are accompanied by a pair of pale green stockings. The shoes have cameo buckles set in a dull gold rim. This time the stockings are embroidered in dull gold, in a conventional design at the ankle.

Some women who go in for the spectacular will be interested in the hose, which have gayly colored animals and insects inset with semi-precious stones.

For instance, one pair of hose seen in a New York shop window was ornamented at the instep with a tiny chameleon in imitation emeralds. Another pair of hose in black silk showed on the instep a scarlet lobster embroidered with red silk thread. Still another pair of silk hose in a dainty shade of gray had a tiny gray mouse with pink eyes. Many are the hose embroidered in flower designs, self-tones or natural colors. One pair was decked with morning glories in all the lovely shades of the flowers; another with forget-me-nots, and a third pair of black silk stockings was adorned with yellow daisies.

Senor Menocal is an enthusiastic admirer of the Kentucky saddle horse, and authorized his agent, Fred Wolf, of Havana, to secure him the best specimen of this class of horse obtainable. Mr. Wolf came to Lexington and, after looking over a number of attractive horses, decided on Hazel Dawn and purchased her from her owner, W. G. Shropshire, of Winchester, for $4,500. He also bought from Mr. Shropshire the walk-trot mare, Beechwood Belle.

An Unusual Funeral.

A picture of a funeral procession which followed the body of Vito Mondago, an Italian, killed at Johnson & Briggs' construction camp, was taken just as the unique cortège reached the cemetery gate, and this will be sent to the widow and two children in Italy by the dead man's countrymen and friends as a token of remembrance of the husband and father who met death far from home while endeavoring to provide for their comfort.

The funeral was unlike any ever held in this city. The hearse was the only vehicle in the procession and 56 Italians, fellow workmen of Mondago's, marched behind the casket. Only four persons in the procession could speak any English. The devotion which the men showed their dead comrade was very touching. —Winchester Sun.

Modern Jacksonville Reveres His Memory At Reunion

Spirit of Great Man Militant in Confederate Reunion City—Why Jacksonville Was Named in His Honor.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Confederate soldiers, the world over, revere the name of Andrew Jackson, and in view of the fact that their next reunion is to be held in the only city in the South that was named in honor of that great and brave man, his services in freeing Florida from the blight of Indian barbarism will be of interest.

Jacksonville was named for Gen. Andrew Jackson as a compliment and mark of appreciation for services he rendered to civilization in the Seminole War. There could have been no progress or civilization in Florida but for the work of Andrew Jackson. Conditions in this territory in 1818, nearly a hundred years ago, demanded the services of a brave and resolute man. Gen. Jackson was selected by the government as the one man above all others to head the movement against the Seminole Indians, who had been terrorizing the territory for several years and committing atrocities of the most brutal character.

In March, 1818, Gen. Jackson was ordered to the site of the Seminole War. He invaded East Florida, and in a campaign of less than six weeks crushed these Indians. It is related that he used the Podolax to release the grapevines.

Col. Roosevelt's family and friends have received the reassuring news that he is safe. While he and his party were crossing a swollen Brazilian river, they were swept into a dangerous rapids and the entire equipment lost. The expedition was at the time far from its base of supplies. The accident occurred, it is thought, on an unknown stream which the Colonel was exploring, known as the Rio Duivatio—River of Doubt. In a recent letter to Frank M. Chapman of the American Museum of Natural History, Col. Roosevelt said:

"We are now about to go into the real wilderness, where we shall have to travel light, and can hardly collect any big animals. In a month or six weeks we shall reach the headwaters of the unexplored river, taking Kermet, Flina and Cherrie with me, as well as Col. Rondon and one or two of the Brazilians. Value of Rheuma From The Court.

Judge Barhorst Was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed.

If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatment for Rheumatism and found they failed, do not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst, of Fort Loramarie, Ohio:

"After treatment by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, walking with crutches."

The U. S. dreadnaught Oklahoma, launched last Monday from the yards of the New York Ship Building Company, at Camden, N. J., will be one of the largest and most powerful battleships that has ever been floated for the American navy. A sister ship, the Nevada, is under construction at Quincy, Mass. Only the Pennsylvania, building at Newport News, and the still unnamed battleship No. 39, the keel of which was laid last week at the New York Navy Yard, will outstrip the Oklahoma in tonnage, displacement, length or the power of her great guns.

Gen. Bennett H. Young, Louisville, Ky., Commander in Chief United Confederate Veterans, Who Hold Their Reunion at Jacksonville in May.

by historians that in one village, not far removed from Jacksonville, he found 300 scalps of men, women and children, many of them still fresh, hanging on a war pole. Gen. Jackson knew that the Spaniards were in sympathy with the Indians in their attacks on American settlers. After cleaning up a number of Indian villages he captured the Spanish post of St. Marks. For this act he was severely censured by his government. However, the naked fact is that "Old Hickory" was more courageous than the men who were conducting the affairs of state at Washington.

Early in May, 1818, Gen. Jackson closed his campaign against the Seminoles in East Florida. He had completely broken their power and run them out of the territory. They caused no more serious trouble.

During his campaign in East Florida Gen. Jackson obtained satisfactory evidence that Spanish officers at Pensacola were in sympathy with the Indians. He promptly decided to march against them and teach them a lesson. The Spanish governor of West Florida, learning of Gen. Jackson's purpose, sent him a written protest against his invasion. This protest is now on file among the Jackson documents in charge of the Tennessee Historical Society at Nashville. The protest was delivered to Gen. Jackson near Pensacola on May 23, but it had no effect on that determined man. In reply he sent a peremptory demand for the immediate surrender of Pensacola and Barrancas. Jackson advanced immediately on Pensacola and possessed it. Two days later the Barrancas garrison capitulated, were received as prisoners of war and sent to Havana.

Having thus snatched both East and West Florida from the Indians and Spaniards, Gen. Jackson at once proceeded to establish a provisional government under the stars and stripes. Having accomplished this, he returned to Tennessee, then his home.

In 1822 a number of pioneers held a meeting here and decided to start the work of building a town. The village was then known as the Cow Ford, a name given to it by the Indians. After perfecting an organization, the incorporation unfurled the banner of Jacksonville in honor of Gen. Jackson, who had made it possible for white men to live here.

When the Confederate soldiers and their friends meet here for the 24th annual reunion Jacksonville will impress them with all the force of Andrew Jackson. It is now a modern progressive city of 85,000 population, one of the thriving business centers of the New South. Its varied attractions will delight all who attend the reunion, and no matter how large the crowd may be, Jacksonville will take care of all.

BELLES OF DIXIE VIE AT REUNION

Brilliant Fetes Planned For Jacksonville Meeting

May 6, 7 and 8 To Be Memorable Dates in Florida's Metropolis—Large Crowd Assured the Reunion City.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Southern social circles are again taking an interest in the great social, military and sentimental annual meeting that brings together a crowd of from 75,000 to 150,000 people to do honor to the ex-Confederate soldier—the reunion of the survivors of the Confederate armies.

The reunion is to be held this year at Jacksonville, Fla., May 6, 7, 8 inclusive. It is the first time that the ex-Confederates have selected Florida as the reunion state, and uncommon interest attaches to the meeting here and throughout the South. Owing to the comparatively early date of the reunion, the divisions, brigades and camps made their appointments of sponsors and maids early, and these ladies compose the social side of the reunion. They are known as the official ladies of the meeting, entertained as such, and courted by the entire social fabric of the South.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, following in the footsteps of their fathers, maintain organizations in every Southern state, and hold their reunions on the same dates. They appoint sponsors and maids of honor.

The two organizations, closely allied, therefore, send to each Confederate reunion several hundred official ladies, selected from the best families of the South, that stand high in the social scale in their communities.

Mapping out a social program, therefore, for a Confederate reunion is a task that demands the best of talent in the entertainment line. There must be dinners, receptions, balls, trips to points of interest around the reunion cities and anything else in the line of social entertainment the committee may devise. The crowning event of the week in society, however, is the annual ball for maids and sponsors. If the reunion is held in a city where a ball large enough to accommodate several hundred dancing couples at once can not be secured, a dancing pavilion is constructed for the occasion. This pavilion consists of a large canvas tent, well floored and lighted; it is also supplied with comfortable seats on the grandstand order, where several thousand spectators may witness the ball.

If the reunion ball is put out of the contest, the annual ball of the Confederate reunion, at which the maids and sponsors hold sway, is the greatest social function of the United States.

The social side of the Jacksonville reunion will be participated in by representatives of all Southern States, the border states and a few western commonwealths. There are sixteen state divisions of the United Confederate Veterans' Association, as follows: South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Louisiana, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas. Each state sends large delegations of young women to the reunion, selected with regard to their social standing at home. In addition to the state delegations, the commander-in-chief has his own official ladies, chosen from the South at large. There are three departments, known as the Army of Northern Virginia department, Army of Tennessee department and Trans-Mississippi department. Each department appoints maids and sponsors and sends them to all reunions. The scope of country covered by these many organizations has about half the population of the United States; hence, the interest in a Confederate reunion is always widespread. Society circles in all of this territory are interested in the Jacksonville reunion, and the event will bring here one of the largest crowds of young people ever assembled in the South. Florida appeals to the young, because of its flowers and its wonders—its poetry, its songs and its attractive history. Rivers and ocean, gulf and bays have interest all their own. The palm and the pine, liveoak and holly, and a hundred other forest trees that abound throughout the state as nowhere else on the continent, invest Florida with an interest as wide as the nation. Greater interest attaches to the Jacksonville reunion than to any recent meeting of the Confederates, and preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd of people in May.

The population of Jacksonville is about 85,000. The assessed value of taxable property is $58,000,000. Twelve years ago it was but $13,000,000, showing an increase of more than 400 percent for the period. The municipal tax levy is 11.5 mills, one of the lowest in the country.

Jacksonville's bank clearings for 1912 were $168,422,388. Aggregate bank deposits approximate $22,000,000. Number of banking institutions, 16.

A Risky Contract.

Judge Graham, in a Chicago court last week, decided against Charles Meyerhofer, the plaintiff, in a suit to recover the engagement ring from Helen Hoagland after she had cruelly given him the "shake." The judge ruled that "man gives an engagement ring at his own risk; if he loses the girl, he also loses the ring."

Food From Trees.

The pecan tree bids fair to rival the vine as an encourager of imaginative literature. The average prospectus of pecan plantations seems to be the joint product of a gas factory and a table of logarithms. In one breath the sucker is told of the enormous crops which this tree will yield, and in the next of the profits of selling that crop at 50 cents per pound.

One might as well be told of a new variety of wheat yielding 100 bushels per acre, and then figure returns on the basis of $6 per bushel. But the world-wide relation between big crops and low prices does not trouble the pecan promoter.

In spite of lakers, the legitimate pecan industry is growing and deserves to grow; and one writer on that topic dropped a prophecy which has a chance of coming true. This is the prediction that some day humanity will get its chief food from trees.

It will take many centuries to fulfill that prophecy, but history is working that way. As population increases, food production must be raised in proportion; and trees will yield more food per acre than is possible for grain. Also, it would save much labor, capital and uncertainty to have a crop that need be planted only once of twice a century, instead of every spring or fall.

No nut crop is known that will take the place of wheat or rye. But the search for such a substitute has already begun, and with time enough, should succeed. More than one department of agriculture will be burbuked in the next few generations, and why not this? —Chicago Journal.

DO NOT LET FAT BURN.

The unpopularity of fried food in many families is due entirely to the fact that the fat has been burned in cooking. Fat when heated too high a temperature splits up and may thus form substances which have an irritating effect on the throat and may cause digestive disturbances.

Fat in itself is a very valuable food, and if it is not scorched, should prove a healthful rather than an objectionable article of diet. A slightly burned taste and similar objectionable flavors can often be removed from fat by putting it in thick slices of raw potato and heating it gradually. When the fat ceases to bubble and the potatoes are brown, the fat should be strained off through a cloth placed in a wide strainer.
